Fall of the Empire is an expansion that introduces a host of new features to Don't Starve, as well as several new boss enemies. It brings a number of updates including an entirely new Painted class, an update to the bio-experience mechanic, a re-worked farming system, and much more. The beast faction is pushing one side of the story. In an event before the fall, one of the fabled beast factions has become even more powerful. It's stealing the life of every one of its subjects, chomping down trees for their blood, and upping the ante for anyone foolish enough to stand in its way. The Giant fell from the skies and the beast factions are currently siding one with or against the giants. Whichever you choose, learn it now... because this is the apocalypse and you only have days! A simple, beautiful and intuitive user interface Huddling at the feet of a thunderous giant while you wait on a new micro-faction, may not be a usual cause of excitement, but when it's your all-time favourite spacefaring race, that's certainly a recipe for instant fun. Don't Starve: Giant Edition, will bring to you all the unique features and outstanding graphics that the Infinity Engine has to offer. Brand new Class: The Painted One of the many updates to fall of the empire will be the addition of a new class, known as the Painted. Much like a Squashed, a landlubberling, and a Gardenherder, this will be entirely new flavour of crafting class! With a very specific focus on painting, this class will help you out by crafting paints for new weapons. In addition to farming biomolecules, it will also be able to grow new plants that could be used to craft farm tools. The Painted will be a vital class at first but will make farming and farming tools obsolete later, until you are proficient enough in upgrading crafting to create your own tools. Bio-Experience Rather than the previous Season Experience which gained you 60 experience points a day, the new bio-experience allows you to gain a substantial amount in a very short
