Cine Star is a 1974 video game developed by Tarsoft. The game was published by Data East in the Japanese Family Computer Disk System (FDS) and Famicom Disk System (FDS) cartridges. It was later released for the PlayChoice-10 and Magnavox Odyssey² home video game systems. Cine Star is the third game in the Cine Sol-N-Orb series. Although the game was developed by Tarsoft, the game's mechanics are similar to later titles in the series, such as Cine Sol-N-Orb the Cartoon and Cine Sol-N-Orb the Movie. In the Famicom Disk System version, Cine Star contains two players in one game, with a total of two playfields. In the original Japanese release, Cine Star included two players in a single game; however, the name of the other player is unknown. Gameplay: Cine Star features a two-player horizontal-scrolling shoot 'em up game set in a universe filled with alien planets and starships. Each player starts out with three saucers to pilot. To play the game, the players must destroy enemy saucers. When all three saucers are destroyed, each player receives three points. If a player makes a mistake, that player receives two points. At the end of each level, players are rewarded with stars, depending on how many points they scored. The player with the most points wins. After each level, players have access to an additional set of saucers that they can use to continue the game. Each additional set of saucers are called an "arc". There are four different arcs (one for each player), each with three saucers. When a player uses an arc, the saucers in the other two arcs are disabled. The player may use whichever saucers he or she wants, but can only use one saucer in any one level. Each saucer provides various offensive and defensive utilities. Unlike some other arcade-style horizontal-scrolling shoot 'em ups, Cine Star prevents the player from gaining more points by destroying saucers than the maximum number of hits. To score points, the players must shoot saucers with the correct types of weapons: missiles, rockets, and bombs, which have different ratings. The hit points vary depending on the type of saucer that is being shot. The number of points achieved depends on how many hits are hit

He was a secretary of Togliatti and a member of the Italian Communist Party. After his funeral in Rome on 10 October 2004 he was interred at the main hall of the Communist Party at San Paolo Fuori le Mura in Rome. Biography De Nicola was born at Rome on 28 February 1910. He was the son of a veterinary surgeon. After attending a technical school he began to work as a journalist at the weekly magazine La vita nuova, a subsidiary of the communist daily newspaper L'Unità. He joined the Italian Communist Party (PCI) in 1928 and, at the age of twenty, joined the group of exiled communists living in France. During the Risorgimento, he collaborated to the daily Il Popolo. He took part in the reorganization of the PCI, participating in the group known as the PCI New Party (Partito Nuovo), that had been created in December 1943 to "stabilize" the organization of the PCI. It was reorganized again in the mid-1944 as the PCI-PON (Partito Operaio Nuovo), in which de Nicola was a

are a very popular technique to use (one to two cars used), though historically American's have not used them in APRC. There are multiple reasons for this. They are expensive compared to the US1%, and the outside of a relay's car must be able to compete in every way, including driver ability and telemetry. The Wreckers do not race their cars in repos, they reserve their best cars for the actual race. Since the Wreckers are the more proven American squads, and the more successful, they only entered a couple American crews and paid to enter additional teams from other countries. They use a similar outside/inside points system as the US1%, though they don't have the "safety margin" that the Wreckers do. The results of the recent races were interesting. For example, with two drivers in the first race, the US and New Zealand teams beat Australia, while the Professional Racers swept the rest. Since the full-sized car is a UC1 lightlap effort, Pro Racer (or APRC-style) are usually only used by fulltime drivers with a top-level crew. Prior to the US1% and APRC Scene changes, American Wreckers did not often enter full-sized cars. Only one US1% co-driver makes attempts there (Josh Hagans), and the success rate of drivers is not very good. For instance, Li (silver medalist in the world triathlon) was always absent except the two Wrecker World Finals races, while Aaltonen (champion in Formula RC3) did poorly in most of the races. For Wreckers, more is always better. This changed with the newcomer, Jack Williams. Jack was champion in Formula RC3 and Hopper Competition last year, besides always being an active helper. He has accomplished his first dream by winning. Besides using an Onan motor, Jack teamed up with former US1% team-mate, Jörg Hunold, who piloted the setup of the RCX1-X2 robot vehicle. His successor was Dominik Wawra's second co-driver, Hans-Jürg Kayser, who also came runner-up in 2008 and will co-drive with Michael Schweiger. Hans-Jürg is a powerful and confident driver, a combination that Jack was missing. As a special bonus, the special Tamiya/Traxxas Turbo Silver 900E motor was donated by the
